Superb Value of Eurostar

Eurostar has been named the World's Leading Rail Service for over a decade. Since 1994, they have been providing top class services to more than 75 million customers to over 100 destinations across the UK and France.

Eurostar should not be confused with Eurotunnel, as they both travel The Chunnel, Eurostar is a passenger only train, where as Eurotunnel also shuttles vehicles, passengers, and other cargo. Eurostar reaches speeds reaching up to 186 miles an hour, and still manages to provide luxury and comfort for everyone on board the train. Any amenities that you may find that you would need on such a trip can be included in the price of your first class ticket, or may be purchased separately with a second-class ticket. While there are hot or cold meals offered, you may also bring your own food and drink on board with you.

Eurostar's website offers tickets starting as low as $116 one-way; however, other websites may offer even lower rates. Purchasing of a rail pass does not cover your fare on Eurostar, however it will get you a special discounted rate. Booking your ticket online is also a good idea, as in many cases it is the most efficient and economical way. You should make sure that if you are going to book online that you book your tickets in advance, as Eurostar offers an up to 9 month advanced booking window, however during summer months that may be reduced down to only 4 months. Second-class tickets are subject to an additional fee if you need to make any changes or cancellations.

If you are comparing travel options between London and Paris, you may have noticed that some airfares appear to be less expensive. Airlines do not offer direct transportation to the city centers that Eurostar does, and may end up costing you more in cab fare alone to reach your final destination. If you are wishing for other destinations than Paris, Eurostar makes several other stops, including Brussels, Disneyland Paris, and the French Alps.

Therefore, if only for a day trip, or an extended traveling vacation, Eurostar trains are the way to travel. With affordable rates, top-notch service, beautiful destinations, and high-speed transit, Eurostar is the way to go. Book your next trip with Eurostar and see why they have twelve years, and counting, of being dubbed The World's Leading Rail Service.
