Villas In Playa Blanca For A Perfect Canary Island Vacation Escape

The selection of vacations offered to the independent traveler today hasn't ever been so broad, and the simplicity of reservation on the internet is apt to help make life a lot less difficult and this is especially true if you want a sun soaked holiday come wintertime or the summer time in the Canary Islands, off the African west coast.

The famous traveler Christopher Columbus as an example , often used the islands as a holding post prior to traversing the Atlantic ocean, whereas by the same token Spanish galleons used to bring back slaves and additionally priceless Inca gold by means of the ports on the islands of Tenerife, Gran Canaria and in addition Lanzarote. This of course ended up attracting the attentions of additional recognized explorers for example :Walter Raleigh and Francis Drake to the islands importance.

Right now though Canary Islands chain fortuitously welcomes a considerably friendlier kind of visitor, comprising of scores of holiday makers from across Europe, and elsewhere in the world These are commonly drawn simply because of the all year long hot sunshine and standards and choice of holiday accommodation to select from, with many hundreds of Lanzarote holiday villas, studios and hotels to select from, specifically in and around the three main resorts of Playa Blanca, Puerto del Carmen and Costa Teguisse.

The established resort of Playa Blanca is most likely the number one choice for beach lovers simply because this fast developing town in the south of the island is widely thought to feature the best stretches of sand on the island, for instance Playa Flamingo and Playa Dorada. Furthermore, it is in extremely close proximity to the shores and coves of Papagayo (meaning parrot in Spanish language), which have all been left completely unchanged by the ravages of tourism.

Because of this the demand for holiday accommodation for example Playa Blanca villas continues to be in high demand month in month out.

Many of Lanzarote's best beaches though tend to be in secluded spots away from the main resorts. Famara for example on the islands north west coastline is arguably quite possibly the most spectacular, due to the fact that it is actually flanked by the awe-inspiring Famara massif range of cliffs, which are roughly one thousand three hundred feet high at one end of this 8km long beach. This makes a remarkable background for this very attractive stretch of sand.

Yet another stunning beach is situated on the islands south westerly shoreline at Arrieta, a modest fishing hamlet which is certainly extremely popular with locals but is essentially undiscovered by tourists as a consequence of its position in the northern part of the island nicely tucked away from the major holiday resorts.

The beach here is very tidal so sometimes can in some measure disappear altogether in places. But on the plus side there are plenty of services right here like showers and lavatories and also a pair of good restaurants at both ends of the beach. So this is often a great place to head for if you want to have a nice platter of fresh fish right by the coast.

If you tot them all up, you'll discover there are roughly around 100 sizzling beaches on Lanzarote, so it truly does pay ensure you get out and discover this magical island. As it actually is the ideal spot for beach lovers.
