When Was The Last Time You Went On A Train?

Do you remember the last time you went on a journey by train? If it hasn't been for a long time then you could be missing out on a lot. For most of us, travelling by train is something that we quite often forget about even though the majority of people love this form of transport. Travelling by train is a leisurely way to travel but most of us just tend to go everywhere by train. We only actually remember how nice it is to travel by train when we get on one again after a long time.

In the UK we have never had so much choice when it comes train travel - we really are lucky. We can take a train journey setting off from our local station and then find ourselves on the other side of the world a few days later after taking a number of different trains along the way. We can now access a lot of the world now by train as the Chunnel has now connected us to mainland Europe. People can now get to Singapore from London by rail using famous railways such as the Orient Express and the Trans-Siberian Express. This type of travel allows you to see a lot more of the world than you would on a plane and as long as you are not in a rush to get to your destination, you can actually find this method quite affordable.

But don't feel that you need to take quite such a long trip to be able to fully appreciate train travel again. Just take a short trip from one town to the next by train instead of taking the car. You won't have to worry about looking for a parking space after you have sat for ages in traffic on the way to your destination; travelling by train means you can sit back and relax on the journey. If you haven't been on a train for a long time, then you really should give it a try again as it is a fantastic way to travel.
